Gloria Cortez	We were at the Butterfly farm in St. Martin earlier this month. We have always wanted to stop there, but we always seem to think the beaches are more important. We had a marvelous experience. We actually spent 2 days visiting the farm. It is a remarkable place. Our grandson loves butterflies, so I took about 50 pictures to share with him. I also bought him one of the cases with butterflies in it. He keeps asking us when he can go to the Butterfly farm. I also had the incredible experience of having a Blue Morpho on my finger with it's wings wide open. It was a newly born beauty. I would recommend the farm to anyone.

Elizabeth Diaz	I was at the Farm in February of this year. I remember a gentlemen by the name of Willie asking us if we had seen butterflies around our area. I live in Fla. and happened to be one of the lucky ones that had seen them, however I haven't seen them in a while. Until today! As I was sitting in my patio, I started thinking of the Butterfly Farm and how strange that I hadn't seen any butterflies around the yard in a while. All of a sudden, 3 yellow butterflies and one orange striped, flew by right in front of me! It was a magical experience! To be thinking of the butterfly farm and have them suddenly appear! It took my breath away! Thank you for making your farm so memorable as to attract them when simply the thought of you Butterfly Farm comes to mind!

Mark Lasko	I would have given higher, but some the info presented on your tour (which I took twice in Aruba with two different persons presenting - also listened in to another tour ahead of me) is somewhat vauge or just plain wrong for some of the species represented... I am not a ball-buster, but have often seen enough displays where I prefer a little expertise with the correct answers when I ask... :sigh Your staff was reasonably educated and knowledgeable for the material presented. I would the gift shop be cleaner looking and have calendars not so bent out of shape but the humidity likely doesn't help with that. The gardens and butterflies were WONDERFUL. Thanks so much for such a memorable trip.

Marsha Torello	Hi, I was able to tour your butterfly garden last February, 2006 while on a curise. Your garden was my first pick of destinations to go to while on vacation. I was very impressed with the knowledge you were able to share with us about the butterflys. I have been interested in our flying friends since my oldest daughters' second grade teacher turned us on to finding the monarch cattapillar when she was in the second grade at Sparlingville Elementary School in Kimball, Michigan 48074. Her second grade teacher was Mrs. Price and she would send away for catapillars if we were not successful in finding them in the wild. From the middle of August until the first frost we were always looking and watching for the butterfly chrycillis'. I even started a butterfly garden in my back yard to bring them in even more. I have wild milk weed growing right long with the butterfly bush and let the dill grow wild with the flowers so others can also find hosts to enjoy for such a short time of summer that we enjoy here in Michigan. So far this winter we have had mostly rain

Unfortunately my camera decided to erase them all! It was a gift and was the display and had been having a few problems up until then anyway, but that evening in my room when I went to look at the pictures again it said "unrecognized file format" and they were all gone! My Mother-in-law said "we will just have to do it again!" Thanks for your time explaining the camoflage butterflies use and for suggesting frying the tomato worms, think we will pass on that advice but I am checking your site to see what plants we can grow in our area to help the butterflies!

Joan Hebert	Hi.  Before going on my eastern caribbean cruise I checked out the excursions and the Butterfly Farm in St. Martin was a must see.  I was very impressed with the passion, information and butterfly farm itself. I am from Canada and have as yet not seen the butterfly farm in Niagara Falls. I have already passed your site and my memories on to my friends.  I was at your farm with my grandson and have also given your site to my other three grandkids for their research and interest.  We do have milk weed and parsley and will certainly plant fennel in the spring to help the wee ones.  Thanks for being there for us.

I especially identified with your comments about Al Gore's GHG efforts. Too bad he doesn'tt focus on sustainability as he much as he does on GHG...but I guess its not politically "fancy" enough for him. My wife and I are rebuilding several gardens at our new home so we will definitely use some of your resources on the website to select butterfly friendly vegetation. Have a great day!

You amazed me when you told us that when the butterfly is in its crystalis it changes from a worm to a liquid and then into a butterfly. I have been studying butterflies for over a year now and never heard of this. Could you send me any research you may have on this? I heard you say that scientists have been studying this. As a former science teacher I am very interested in this transformation. Thanks again for the wonderful tour. I want to commend you on your hard work and knowledge you share with so many visitors throughout the year. Thank you!
Judith Cruz	Your tour guide was great!
Josh & Shevah Faber	We found the tour in Aruba and our guide Carlos to be fascinating. We will definitely spread the word to friends and family that your farm is a must for any traveller to Aruba.
Trista Scheuerlein	[*] I think that what you are doing is great, but I did think that the tour was slightly short & impersonal for the admission price. Plus, the identification card I received had a small proportion of the butterflies I saw! I love to identify animals and could've stayed much longer after the tour identifying if the ID card I purchased was more informative and updated. I would like to have seen more geographical background (like a big map somewhere) showing the origin of the varying species. More information about how to protect the butterflies and how to create a butterfly habitat at home would have been a step closer to achieving your mission of protection & education. It's a beautiful protected area you have created! Kudos for that!

Melvina Jordan	Butterflies are both beautiful and free!!
Bill & Nancy McGuire	I especially enjoyed the teaching aspect of the tour. It was interesting not only for adults but also for the children in our group. Keep up the GREAT WORK!

Matt & Leigh Stewart	Wonderful, one of the best things about our honeymoon!
Frank and Suzy Mendo	This place was the best... the tour guy was so funny and fun...he chased a large butterfly with a butterfly net - it was like something from a funny british movie.  He described each butterfly with a name and a personality, and told us about all of their relationships with each other as if they were people.  The butterfly's were absolutely amazing....beautiful...and some very large ones...  we even watched one hatch out of its cocoon and fly away, but this was when the tour guide tried to catch him - because he just hatched and was blind, and could hurt himself.  A few large ones were also swarming around the red cup I was holding. Definitely a great experience...we tell everyone about it and would return in a heartbeat.
Trudy Rauch	We loved visiting your butterfly farm. The excursion was probably too short. The visit was very interesting and my kids will definitely remember it.

Rosemarie Byrd	My daughter and I visited your wonderful farm 4/11/07 while cruising on the Carnival Triumph and absolutely fell in love! We hope to return sometime in the future, and plan to start our own small butterfly garden. We also have an Aunt who loves butterflies even more than we do, and really enjoyed the pictures we took. We purchased a butterfly preserved in glass as a souvenir for her, and you would have thought we had brought her the moon! Mary Smith	Thank you so much for the wonderful visit I recently had at the Butterfly Farm. I received more information, in less time, than I ever received from several visits to the Butterfly World at Florida State University in Gainesville, Florida. I now look forward to gathering information to begin my very own butterfly garden in the spring. My husband, who is English, is a wonderful gardner and is looking forward to setting up my butterfly garden. Again, thank you for making our tour (Freedom of the Seas) a memorable one. Cheers, Mary and Derek Smith

Peggy	I recently came to St. Thomas to visit with family. I was introduced to many wonderful people by my cousin Sam and his sweet wife, Laura. I met some of you at The Butterfly Farm and was touched by your kindness. I was struck by the beauty of the butterflies, the impressive gardens and the information received from the tour. I had never heard the idea that if a butterfly lands on you it will bring you good luck! I now believe that could very well be true! Your farm, not only the beauty of the butterflies, but the gorgeous plants was awe inspiring and a must see for all ages. I hope to return soon and know I will make a return visit to The Butterfly Farm!!!

Susan	This was a last-minute, unplanned stop for us (on the trip from the dock to our stingray tour, we saw a sign advertising the Butterfly Farm). I would have spent much more time if I had not had to catch the cruise ship! The tour guide gave a LOT of information about the butterfly life cycle that I did not know (and I even plant flowers specifically for butterflyes at home). There was some hands-on learning that was fascinating. You can also just walk around on your own looking at the many species flying around and the tropical flowers. Shirts, jewelry, trinkets available for purchase as well. I have a souvenir shirt I love.

I had asked about a particular mum I planted that just attracted butterflies like crazy, and I will be planting more of them as soon as I find them. They reminded me of wild asters, the flowers were shaped just like that light purple petals with a yellow middle. And surrounded by a cloud of all different types of butterflies! I will also plant the milkweed. Thanks for sharing, Lauren Gould
Terry Woodby	I visited both the butterfly farm in St. Martin and St. Thomas . I enjoyed the one in St. Thomas better because I had more time to enjoy the flowers and butterflies. While I was there the lady at the front got a phone call about her dad, I hope he is doing better. I said a prayer for him. Hope to visit again. Jane Doyle	We visited The Butterfly Farm in Aruba during Christmas of 06. I lost my youngest daughter in 2004 to a car accident and my support group, TCF, uses a butterfly to remember our deceased child. While walking on the paths I asked Colleen, my daughter, to land on my daughter Megan who was with me. Sure enough she landed on her hat and skirt. What a joy to know she was with us in Aruba. Everytime I see a butterfly it gives me a beautiful, loving and peaceful feeling knowing she is around us. God Bless and thank you for giving us a special gift of butterflies.

Janet	I loved visited your butterfly farm. I especially loved to see the beautiful blue butterflies all around me. It was truly an informative and spiritual experience for me. Also the location of your butterfly farm house was in a perfect spot located right across from where our ship, Royal Caribbean's Explorer of the Seas was docked. My son recently passed away and I could truly feel his presence there and I'm sure the big blue butterfly at your farm that stayed so still for me to pet was truly a sign from him. Thank you for the wonderful and comforting experience. Hugs, Janet

We were sooooo glad we went on our own. We spent nearly 2 hours walking around and enjoying the beauty. Our guide was very informative and spent extra time with us after the tour pointing out butterflies and answering questions. It was a wonderful time and if I ever visit Grand Cayman again I will be sure to go back. Thank You!
Corbett Morris	Our family enjoyed our visit to your beautiful butterfly farm on the wonderful island of St. Marten.
Carol Benson	We went to St. Martin. What a great day. I learned a great deal. I thought if I planted enough flowers, the butterflys would come. Now I'll start looking for plants they would use to lay eggs as well. I live in the mountains of Arizona and have noticed the loss of bees. It seems like such a small thing but with dire consequences. Its deep in winter right now, snow and ice everywhere but I want to help, and I will. Thanks for the great day and all the info Carol Benson

Sara Blough	I loved the butterfly farm and am going to try and grow some host plants so that the butterflies will have somewhere to lay their eggs.
Lynne Kalberg	Had a wonderful informative visit. Coincidentally read a nonfiction article to my class in the 3rd grade children's literature book, upon my return from Aruba, that was about a butterfly farm. My personal experiences of the week before proved invaluable!
LOVE	KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK!

Donna D	Our family had a wonderful experience. I homeschool our children and we are researching the possibility of starting our own butterfly farm. Thank you so much for spending your time with us!

I would recommend this as a must for anyone visiting St Maarten
Ranjana	I would highly recommend a visit to the butterfly farm! I'm sorry to say that maybe my original guestbook entry got lost somewhere in cyberspace...? If so, then as I settle back into work and home and hear from old friends wanting to hear about my trip, I now look back fondly at St. Maarten more than ever. I'm truly a Canadian, born and raised in my "home and native land", and enjoy the change of the seasons. Although we do not have to deal with the force of a hurricane, trust me, in Canada we have been pummelled by winter weather since my trip!! So the Monarchs are smart to vacation in Mexcio then! ;-)
carolbfurbush	I vistied your farm and really learned from this wonderful experience

charles sloger	My wife and I were on a Caribbean Princess tour to the Butterfly Farm on April 2, 2008. I wished the tour could have stayed longer at the Butterfly Farm. We enjoyed the Butterfly Farm.
Darlene Garrison	The farm and butterflies are really something to see. However, the only really negative comment I would make is that we didn't get to spend enough time looking through the farm at the butterflies. Beverly, our guide, seemed too concerned and spent way too much time with the adults and children in the back who were not concerned with listening. I think she simply needs to give her speech (which is very interesting and informative). If others choose not to listen, then that's their problem. It just wasted too much time (when we didn't have a lot to begin with) that should have been spent exploring and enjoying the butterflies. Overall, it's a great place to visit!

Brenda L. Hart	Enjoyed the tour of the gardens and the lecturer was delightful and explained all the details about butterflies. Using some of the knowledge I learned with a children's program. thanks again hope to see you when I return to St. Thomas. Brenda Hart

ed bielawski	was there with mariner of the seas last week. loved it all
Barbara Barlow	Staff is very knowledgeable and friendly. There is a huge assortment of butterflys and staff teach you how to get them to come to your own yard, what plants to have out for them, etc. The only drawback was that it was so hot that day (off our cruise ship). Thank you- 05/20/08

Len &amp; Jill Conway	An excellent experience!! I got a number of very nice photos as well.
Patty Reeves	My husband and I vacationed in Aruba from 8/29/2008-9/6/2008. While he went scuba diving, I went to the Butterfly Farm. I thought I would only stay an hour or so, and didn't think I wanted to listen to the tour guide. I did listen to the guide, which was very interesting, and stayed over two hours in the heat of the day (12-2. Was really glad I brought water). I came back two days later ( using my free pass) and finally shot the Blue Morpho opening his wings on the fruit bar! The Butterfly Farm was definitely a highlight of my trip. I will be sending you a few of my better photos.
Elena	I very much enjoyed my visit to your Butterfly Farm. I was one of the highlights of my cruise this past January. You have many kinds of butterflies I had never seen in person. My children also enjoyed seeing and learning about them. Congratulations on your hard work in such a remote area.
Annalisa	I visited you in St. Martin last week with my husband and we enjoyed very much!
Sandy Dunning	After visiting the Butterfly Farm in April this year, I returned home to Massachusetts USA and immediately began plans for a butterfly garden for my elementary school. Our school is a PreK - Grade 4 primary school and we have 500 students. Our first step is to till an area in the front of our school and then the children will help rid the soil of grass and weeds. The students are also researching to find what plants will work best in our growing region. Next year we plan to use our Butterfly Garden as an entry into a year long study of the effects of our environment on insects. Thank you for your inspiration.

David Squires	Paul, Gary and I thoroughly enjoyed our visit to your Farm in St. Thomas! (Gary was the guy we pulled around in the wheelchair). We also enjoyed reminiscing about Kjell Sandved - he certainly is a character, to put it mildly. The lepidopterist at the Smithsonian whose full name I could not remember was J.F.Gates Clarke. He had been at the Institution since 1954!! The yearbook I'm looking at described him as a "microlepidopterist". A very fine man and genuinely nice person, dedicated to his profession. Thanks again for a great visit. Dave.

The guide was very informative, and we learned a lot. I have been to the island every year for 7 years, and this is the first time we went to the farm, and wish I hadn't waited so long. I am now in the process of figuring out how to make my own "Butterfly Farm" at my house. One option is to enclose an area of one end my patio, and use the sliding door to the house as entrance to the "farm"! The area would be about 12' by about 15'. Thank you for starting the interest in butterflys in me.....

Christine Watson	I visited your butterfly farms on Aruba and St. Martin in December 2009 and was really impressed. I myself breed rare British Butterflies. I thought the farms were beautifully and naturally laid out and could have spent a day there just watching, but sadly only had about 35 minutes in each. Your guides were exceptional - giving very good information for people who had no previous knowledge but were equally interesting to people like myself who already had the interest. Well done and best wishes for the future.
Robert J. Murray	We were in St. M the first week of 2010. Really enjoyed your farm. Hope to do plantings here in New Hampshire USA to attract butterflies next summer.

Norma Simmons	I have been to your butterfly farm there in St. Marten about three times. We used to vacation there in St. Maarten for two weeks every year and we did that for about ten years. We didn't know about the butterfarm until about the last three years we came. After we found it, we had to come and visit every year. It is a wonderful place. Butterfly's are my favorite little animals. I have pictures of them all over my house, some of them yours. There is something about a butterfly that everybody loves. They are so colorful, happy and free. We used to come to St. Maarten every year for two weeks for about ten or twelve years. There is no way to tell you how much we love the Island and the people there. Just as soon as the plane touched down, I felt like I was home, and that's the way people treated us. My Sister-in-law &amp; I had so much fun there every year. We got to know so many nice people from the Island. Cheri's was our hang out @ night. We loved going there, listening to the band. Everybody seemed like family. We have so many wonderful

My daughters had a great time and enjoyed all the beautiful species that were present. We will tell all our friends about the farm so they will visit when they travel to St. Martin. The British gentleman who conducted our tour was excellent! He was so passionate about the farm and how we must all wake up to the global issues that exist surrounding the plight of the poor butterflies. We should all do our part to ensure that the butterflies thrive, not just survive. Thank you for a wonderful tour and experience that we will always remember. We reside in south Florida/USA and will do our part to create a butterfly garden. We will be in touch for tips and advice as we begin our garden in the coming months. Thanks for a fun day. Margie Jennette

Karen Hernandez	This was such a magical experience! I enjoyed it thoroughly. I even was moved to tears when I went, which was unexpected. I did not think I would feel like that. The overall experience was peace-filled and calming, and a wonderful reminder of how precious and short our own cycle is here at this moment on our beautiful planet we all share. Many blessings and thank you for this gift!

Megan TRotman	It was awesome! I am 13 years old and I think my trip to the butterfly farm in st.maartain was cool. I cant believe that at one time there were butterflies roaming around outside like they were when i went.I think it was a really good experience and that not many children my age will not be able to see such a sight because of the pollution.I find unfair for the next generations not to be able to see their environment the way it should. I want my children to see a sight when they get older. Megan

We love butterflies. I seen on tv that you were hit by Earl. I hope that you have not sustained any major damage. I am going to let my friends on yahoo and facebook know about your Butterfly Farm please send me your address so I can email them and they may send donations. I have an address on a card I just wish to make sure it is correct. I live on the North Carolina coast at the mouth of the Pamlico Sound and Neuse River. For the past 2 days there have been butterflies every where. Even very large ones that I have never seen in this area. Bigger than the Asian Tiger Swallow Tail. Same colors but different markings. More brown than yellow. All I could think about was you guys Now we have to batten down the hatches and lower our sails and prepare for the worse. The cold

didi	I have a couple questions about my polyphemus moth cocoon: How should I moisturize it? It is covered with green leaves; are those sufficient? Does keeping them in a dark garage cause them to loose their sense of daylight time, thus delay their emergence? Thank you :D

The butterflies are such beautiful colors and the education on butterflies has inspired me to make my property more butterfly friendly. Now I'm doing more research on butterflies. Of course, the first place I'm looking is your website. I wish the side tour would have spent more time at the farm in Aruba and less time on useless tourist rocks. I applaud you for your piece of paradise and your home and care of butterflies.
